

Through the goodness of Almighty God, health, peace, prosperity, and security to person and property have been accorded to the people of Wisconsin the past year, and our industries have prospered abundantly. Because of these blessings it is due that we gratefully and with sincere hearts return thanks to Him for His blessings.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States, I, Jeremiah M. Lusk, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby appoint:

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1887, as a day of public thanksgiving and praise, and a recommendation that on that day the people of this State abstain from their usual vocations and return thanks for the innumerable blessings bestowed upon them by the Supreme Ruler, and that they remember by substantial and cheerful observance, the poor and afflicted among them.

In testimony whereof, I have caused my hand and the Great Seal of the State to be affixed. Donec at the City of Janesville, this 12th day of November, 1887.

J. M. LUSK.

By the Governor: JAMES G. TRIMM, Secretary of State.

PLACING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

One of the prominent democrats of Janesville who is firm in his defence of law and order, calls the attention of the Gazette to one point of Captain Black's argument before Governor Oglesby which is worthy of special attention, and the more seriously considers the point in question, the more he will be disgusted with the manner in which the authorities in Chicago conducted their city early in 1885, and the spring of 1886 when the Haymarket massacre took place. Referring to the violent speeches made in public halls and public squares by the leaders in the anarchy movement, Captain Black told the governor this:

These speeches had been made in public places to the audience of the entire people, with the knowledge of the state, with the knowledge of the entire city, and in all the years during which they had been going on there had never been one a rioter of the law sent to the place of meeting to prevent their utterance. In other words, these men had every reason to form an impression that they were exercising a constitutional right, and that impression, sir, was strengthened and was fortified by the action, or rather inaction, of the authorities. They were told that they were not to be disturbed. The words you are now uttering are not from the position of a man who is not to be disturbed. I only passed a moment to throw in this remark.

Governor Oglesby—Did I understand you to say a moment ago that at the time of the gathering of which the men mentioned addressed the public—you mean to say that the police prevented the men from uttering their words, or sought to disturb their meeting?

Captain Black—No, sir, never.

Governor Oglesby—That was the first time?

Captain Black—This was the first time. Up to that time they had had the absolute uniform acquiescence for years of the entire municipal authorities of this state, and let it be remembered, sir, that upon the testimony of Mayor Harrison himself, who was at the Haymarket meeting, that night in person, this meeting was not up to the time of his departure, an unlawful one.

The mayor of Chicago had power to disperse these mob-like gatherings of the anarchists, but he would not. It was more than a year before the Haymarket massacre that Spies, Parsons, Engel, Fischer, and others of the anarchists, publicly advised the use of dynamite in blowing up the board of trade building and the Pullman building and urged their followers to exterminate the militia and the police. It was Parsons who commanded the use of the gun and dynamite in the suppression of all law in Chicago. And yet Carter Harrison was not a notice of the violent and incendiary speeches that brought on the massacre in 1886. He was either a coward, or in sympathy with the movement to create a social revolution. It is an open fact that he was, while mayor of the city, a friend of all the gamblers in the town, that he cared more for the votes and for the good will of the liquor men and the class of persons out of which anarchists are made, than he did for the reputation of being a clean and high-minded official. It seemed that he was in spirit and sympathy in accord with all the social and political pollution of the city. He did not want reform. He never attempted to stay the spirit of blood-thirstiness, anarchy or revolution that was shown from time to time, by firmly and manfully appealing to the better judgment of the leaders; and he never once, during all the wayward display of vengeance and conspiracy, exercised the power vested in him to step all such proceedings.

Be let them go on, and this was a strong point in Captain Black's argument, which evidently took Governor Oglesby by surprise. If Carter Harrison had taken the proper steps to defend the law and secure the necessary order in the city, there would have been no Haymarket massacre and no hanging on the 11th of November. Free speech does not mean the advice to madden crowds to use dynamite in blowing up private or public buildings or in using bombs to take human life. And therefore the authorities in New York should cause the arrest of Herr Moet, and put him where his revolutionary speeches and writings will do no harm. As a rule, all such deadly scenes as have been witnessed in Chicago could be averted if the law officers do their duty and act in time. But if the authorities permit such speeches as were made in Chicago by the anarchists, the result will inevitably be anarchy and bloodshed.

The Springfield (Massachusetts) Republican has made an interesting summary of what has been attempted this year in the way of amending state constitutions. Curiously enough, in every case but one these attempts have been defeated. Both Kentucky and Delaware have voted for constitutional conventions, though there are no two states in the Union that need to revise their constitutions more than they—the one to conform to the ideas of modern political progress, the other that it may enact laws for the punishment of crime. Maryland has also voted under a similar proposition which had been made by the German party mainly for the purpose of procuring a new set of judges to take the places of those who so courageously and honestly performed their duty in purging the Baltimore registration lists. This was the only defeat Gorman sustained but it was an emphatic and significant one. Texas, Tennessee, Michigan, and Oregon have refused to adopt a prohibition amendment, and Georgia and Florida have both resolutely to the principle of local option, with the result, of course, that temperance has made more headway than in any state where the prohibitionists have had an opportunity to attempt the enforcement of their impracticable doctrines. Little Rhode Island has set her foot squarely on woman-suffrage. The only important amendment carried this year is one in California which concentrates the responsibilities of municipal government in one man.

It is said that Stewart, the Wichita drug clerk who was sentenced to seven years imprisonment and to pay a fine of $20,000 for selling liquor, is now a clerk in a drug store in Garden City, Kansas; and that he was released upon the payment of $100. It is charged that he was persuaded to plead guilty by the deputy attorney-general of the state for the effect his sentence might have on other violators of the prohibitory law, with the understanding that he would have to pay only a small amount and would not be imprisoned. This is a very effective way of bringing contempt on law. A scrow way of inducing a certain class of persons to violate one of the important laws of the state could not be devised than by turning the conviction and sentence of Stewart into a farce. People must not be surprised if there are a good many cases like Stewart's in Kansas in the future.

Three paragraphs illustrating the spirit of the "solid south":

Augusta (Ga.) Gazette: The movement, shallowest, most contemptible organization in all this country is that which poses under the pompous name of the Grand Army of the Republic. It is an aggregation of leeches, hypocrites, and dead-beats.

Memphis (Tenn.) Appeal: Very gratifying information reaches us to the effect that Mr. Jefferson Davis, the successful statesman, gallant soldier, and unselfish patriot, is in good health, and has returned to his home good for a few months.

Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution: "Is not the south solid?" inquires the New York Tribune. Well, we should smile to remember.

The jury in the case of Peter Deegan the Port Washington farmer charged with the murder of Theodore Schmidt, has returned a verdict finding the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree. The judge sentenced Deegan to hard labor for a term of twenty years.

He was quarreled with Dehmet over a load of straw and in a fit of madness killed him. It was a pretty dear load of straw for Deegan. Dr. Kemper, of the Northern hospital, and Dr. Henry Palmer, of this city, were called as expert witnesses to prove that Deegan was not insane.

Louisville Courier-Journal: It is asserted that the world worships wealth, but who can say so while comparing the reception of Mr. Sullivan in England to that of Mr. Gould?

England seems to be as peculiar a nation. The latter never entertained a statesman or a man of letters with that enthusiasm and lavish hospitality as to aid Sullivan, the gambler and prize-fighter. And the people of London never received an American orator or an artist as did Buffalo Bill, for in the few weeks he was there with his "wild west" show, he put in his pockets $310,000.

Boston and New York are having a little tilt in regard to the concert Jenny Lind gave in those cities in 1850. New York boasts that Mr. Geun, the hatter of that city, paid the highest price ever paid to hear Lind, which was $300 for a single ticket. But Boston comes back on New York with the statement that Osean E. Dodge, the well known singer, then of Boston, paid $225 for the first ticket for the opening concert in Tremont Temple, September 27, 1850.

George Westinghouse, the inventor of the air brake, is worth $9,000,000. Mr. Westinghouse can therefore well afford to show his favorite horse with silver.

THE LAW'S MAJESTY.

It is Vindicated by the Hanging of the Anarchists.

1. HOW THE FOUR MET THEIR FATE.

They March to the Gallows with Firm Steps and Eeriest Haggard-Throes Last Words of Warning to the Future.

ANARCHY PHOTODUPT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The anarchists Spies, Fischer, Engel and Parsons were hanged at the county jail yesterday morning at 11:57 o'clock. The execution took place in the presence of a small assembly of people, and was devoid of sensational incidents. The men met their fate calmly, and were evidently impressed with the idea that they were suffering a just punishment for their crimes.

At 10 o'clock the press representatives and the jury were conducted to the gallows. The four men were taken to the gallows at 11:30 o'clock. ODD FELLOWS' HALL.

The Social Dancing Party Last Evening Proves a Pleasant Affair.

Pleasant Rooms for Small Socials in the Odd Fellows' New Block.

The Odd Fellows have about completed the remodeling and repairing of their building at the corner of North Main and North First streets. A complete description of the upper floors of the building was given in the Gazette some days ago. The lodge room is now completed, and has been occupied by the two local lodges. The lodge room, while it is not as large as many, it is furnished with all the necessary accessories and is as convenient as any in the state.

The social rooms on the third floor have also been completed. These consist of a ladies' parlor with dressing room and wardrobe, a gentlemen's room with wardrobe, a large dining hall, a dining room and a kitchen. All these different rooms have been completed and furnished in splendid style and harmony, making the entire building in the state devoted to such purposes.

Last evening, under the leadership of a committee headed by Mr. B. H. Baldwin, a social party was given and between thirty and forty couples were present. Most of the company were young people who are in the habit of attending club parties given in the large public halls, and all united in the opinion that no better accommodations could be found in the city for such gatherings than the Odd Fellows social rooms.

It is the intention of the trustees to lease these rooms to clubs, small social gatherings and families for the purpose of holding dancing and other parties, the trustees furnishing the rooms, including lights, fuel, etc., at a low price, hoping thereby to realize a small revenue for the benefit of the order.

The party last evening was a pleasant and happy combination of pleasure seekers. Anderson's orchestra occupied the music box, and dancing was continued until twelve o'clock, when the gathering dispersed while the orchestra was playing "Home, Sweet Home."

BRICKLETS.

—Have you seen the star?

—That Quany case is settled at last.

—Roland Reed at the opera house this evening.

—The Rich divorce suit is to be tried this afternoon.

—Everybody seems glad to have the anarchist matter ended.

—A new grocery firm is negotiating for a location in the city.

—Union services at the First M. E. church to-morrow evening.

—Piles are being driven in the river for an extension to the Wisconsin soap factory.

—Judging from the weather, October and November must have changed places.

—The carpenters are putting the roofing timbers on the Bowles, Hadden & Co's. barn to-day.

—The opera house will be crowded this evening to see Roland Reed, the imitable comedian.

—An advance of twenty dollars will be made on all round trip tickets to California over the Northwestern road after Jan. 1st.

—Editor Coon, of the Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter, celebrating his twenty-fourth birthday. May the day have many happy returns.

—There will be services in the Norwegian Lutheran church to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock and the Lord's Supper will be administered.

—The common council will meet in regular session on Monday evening—provided always, that a majority of the aldermen deem it convenient to be present.

—The population of the second ward was increased one by the safe arrival of an embryo straight republican at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Spelzer last evening.

—Dr. Buckley's Wonderful Hair Man and Hair Restorer drew young men by the hundreds to the store on Milwaukee street lately occupied by Zimmerman's restaurant, this afternoon.

—If everybody would say just exactly what they think, for one day, said a very level-headed, west-side, it would take three months' hard work to restore the shattered relations.

—Mr. S. H. Jesslyn was thrown from a buggy this morning at the Academy street railway crossing and was severely hurt. His worst injuries are about the side and shoulder.

—The Rev. T. De Witt Peake, pastor of Court Street church, is confined to his home by sickness. His pulpit will be occupied to-morrow morning by Rev. A. J. Mead, of Appleton.

—Everybody along the street to-day took a turn at looking for the star-spangled in last night's Gazette. It could be seen plainly a few degrees west of the sun and attracted much attention.

—Read the advertisement of L. L. Clark in another column. He offers some special bargains in fine goods. Mr. Clark is recognized as one of the leading shoe dealers of the city. Call and see him.

—While the J. J. Baker authorities have been quarreling over the question of continuing singing in our public schools, koud du Lac has introduced the typewriter as one of the branches in their schools.

—Mrs. J. P. Baker, Mrs. O. D. Rowe and Mrs. A. P. Barnham attended the progressive encore club of which they are members, at Mrs. Baker's home in the first ward last evening. The affair was a decidedly pleasant one.

—Charles Wheeler, the boot black whose case was taken in hand by the ladies of the Associated Quenities, has recovered the use of his broken leg and is once more at work. Efforts are being made to send him to the state school at Sparta.

—Frank Ryan, who is well known in this city, had part of his hand blown off in the premature explosion of a blast at Blanchardville, Wis., Thursday. His COMPANION, DANIEL CASTELLO, was badly hurt about the face, and will probably lose his eyesight.

—The news boys are resuming a harvest yesterday afternoon and last evening the demand for extra papers could hardly be supplied. Gazettes containing the account of the hanging were sold as fast as the boys could get to the street, and several editions were necessary to keep up with the rush. At 5:55 the town was flooded with Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, while the same thing was repeated by carriers of the Chicago Journal at 8:40. By morning the "rush" had partly subsided but the Milwaukee and Chicago papers sold rapidly nevertheless. The bundle received by R. W. King at 1:30 took all the strength of five men to bring it into the store.

—The lecture to be delivered at Court Street church next Monday evening by the Hon. George R. Wendling, will be one of the most interesting ever heard in this city. The subject will be "Sins of the Fathers." Mr. Wendling is one of the foremost orators in this country. As a lecturer there are none on the platform to-day that are more interesting than he. His subject commands the attention of every intelligent reader, for the reason, as Mr. Carpenter used to say, St. Paul was the greatest character, the ablest writer, and the most commanding genius that ever lived. Let Janesville give Mr. Wendling a full house.

PERSONAL.

—W. P. Morgan, day operator for the Milwaukee & St. Paul road at Plattville, is visiting in the city.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Tilton, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, arrived in the city last evening, on a visit to relatives and friends. They are warmly welcomed by a host of friends. Mr. Tilton, who was formerly city editor of the Gazette, is now managing editor of the Council Bluffs department of the Omaha Bee.

—On Monday next Mr. Frank Beswick goes to Madison for the purpose of conducting the employ of Messrs. J. H. Ounklik & Co., coal and wood dealers, at their bookkeeping. Mr. Beswick has had much experience in this business; is a young gentleman, full of business activity combined with strict integrity. The best wishes of his many friends accompany him to his new home in the capital city.
